Written report attached. If DES encouraged applicants to come to the subcommittees earlier this might be helpful. The edits of the letter related to Right to Know law but otherwise remained the same.

The Conte partnership is working well. Comm. Lembke described the equipment available for presentations include two tables, a pop up tent, and table-top display. Recreation Press Conference – Andy Fisk, Connecticut River Conservancy (CRC) thanked the Commissioners for working together on several projects recently and offered an invitation to the CRJC and local subcommittees to participate in several CRC activities over the summer. There will be two types of activities – Quest 65 event all smartphone based scavenger hunt. June 15 to October and collect points and eligible for prizes. Jump in Journey Source to Sea will highlight work of the CRC for the Connecticut River and the Watershed. This was previously done in 1959 and this will be an encore of that journey to highlight the successes and recognize remaining problems.

Starting at 4th Connecticut Lake beginning July 15, events will occur each day through July 31. They would like to work with subcommittees and the Joint Commissions. There will be an event on July 22 from Cornish to Claremont. Harpoon Brewery and Snap Dragon Inn are sponsors and there will be a reception at the Windsor Welcome Station. The hope is to highlight where organizations see recreational infrastructure going? Fisk would like to have CRJC, RPCs, and the Subcommittees attend this meeting on Saturday afternoon July 22. How that story gets lifted into a larger conversation, in chronicling the journey, and a longer form story about the Connecticut River will be part of the effort.

Other events include a July 21 paddle on the river, and then followed with a reception at the home of the Smith's in Lyme with Congressional Representatives Peter Welch and Annie Kuster in connection with that even.

CRJC's recreation plan is a living document. The Upper Valley and Mt. Ascutney are very focused on the erosion issues. They are upset about the emphasis on recreation projects.

Comm. Sloat noted that people who do engage in recreation can see the problems of the erosion that need to be addressed. Comm. Lembke stated that the discussion is not an either or between erosion and recreation. Comm. Deen stated the bottom line issue is not erosion but the overall health of the river. Comm. McClammer asked that CRJC might solicit ideas from the local river subcommittees for things to be addressed. The event will highlight the common issues of interests of the organizations.

July 24th in Brattleboro will be David Deen's retirement part. Kathy Urffer (kurffer@ctriver.org) will be the new river steward replacing Deen. Andy Fisk will be in contact with staff with info and Kathy will send her background and contact info to staff.

Comm. McClammer would like to continue the discussion about how to prioritize and support recreation objectives.

The CRJC meeting reconvened to elect officers. Comm. Bamford moved the slate above. The results of that election are: President Jason Rasmussen, Vice President James McClammer, Secretary Steven Lembke, Treasurer Chris Yurek. Vote: Unanimous.

Other Business/Announcements

Friends of Conte CRJC Representative. Meetings are in Hadley Mass. Company asked whether any others would like to be the “official” representative of CRJC. Comm. Lembke recommended that Comm. Company continue in that role, but he might want to talk about a future participation.

Comm. McClammer moved that Comm. Company be CRJC’s representative to Conte and Comm. Lembke be an alternate. Deen seconded. All in favor. Have this as a standing agenda item when there is something to report.

Comm. Deen has tried contacting the Sec of ANR and Sec Civil and Military Affairs, and Gov Scott to discuss making reappointments to CRJC a priority.

Consensus on the letter drafting Chairs of two state commissions will draft letters to state governors parlyzed on keeping and recruiting members. Staff will draft a letter to work. Urging action on nominating commissioners to state committees and the focus on the river. Unique nature of cross border development review as the mission of the commissions should be noted. Executive Committee will meet and review letters on Monday, July 17.

Comm. Deen moved Sloat seconded a motion to have Comm. McClammer be authorized to speak as an individual member of CRJC on the reconstruction of Route 12A between Charlestown and Walpole. Discussion followed that the subcommittee should be the resource to comment on large projects. Comm. McClammer reminded members that the CRJC delegated responsibility to comment upon permit applications to the LRSs but retained authority to comment on larger projects (see Section G of Guidelines for the Local River Subcommittee Permit Review Process, copy attached). Joint Commissions should be in the room within the limits of an individual member. Vote: Unanimous.

CRJC Commissioners expressed their gratitude to outgoing Commissioner Mary Sloat for her many years of service as treasurer and her commitment to protecting the river.
